Is it true that $X \sim N(\mu, \sigma^2)$, where σ is an unknown positive constant? A: σ is fixed. You cannot assume the variance to be unknown, only the mean. The reason for this is that a variance that is scaled by a constant is independent of the location. Tag Archives: canola Sen. Rand Paul appeared today on the "Today" show and spoke about the need for the GOP to embrace a more radical fiscal and foreign policy. He also touched upon some of the various charges that the government is restricting people's gun rights and marijuana use. "I think the debate in Washington is that it's either too tough on crime or too tough on the war on drugs" said Sen. Paul. Washington isn't tough enough on crime and Washington is not tough enough on the war on drugs, they're both going to get more results the sooner the message is understood and acted upon. After the Boston Marathon bombing Sen. Paul said that the US was now doing what a country that cared about it's citizens would do. The most important thing that the US has to do is right the wrongs of being "too soft" and "too tough". "We ought to be looking at the budget to see where the waste is. We ought to be looking to see where everything's not getting done" he said. While I understand that many Americans are aware that the US has a problem spending in excess of all other nations in the world combined, I think the big picture message is lost, if it's not clear in everything we do. It's not about a reduction in spending, we have to fix the broken system that we've created in an effort to keep people poor. Why would the US Government spend more money than other countries but keep the people under it in dire poverty. I'll be posting two new blogs later this week on the economy and America's two party system. I may be

Q: Why does json_decode fail when it is decoded but not when it is fed to json_encode? EDIT: I initially thought it was because of wp_enqueue_script('jquery') and it occurred to me that it was because I was working on a live site and not on my localhost so I tested the php code in a php.net site and the code works there, so there is something else causing it I am sure.
